ANNOUNCEMENTS

Outstanding Regulatory Board Service Award

Emily Efferson, the Louisiana State Board of Social Work Examiners' administrative assistant, received the Board Administrator Award for outstanding commitment to regulatory board service from the Association of Social Work Boards (ASWB). The award was made at ASWB's 2005 Fall Delegate Assembly in Dearborn, Michigan. In making the recognition, President Delfino Trujillo of New Mexico credited Efferson with working well "through big changes and some very serious events." After the retirement of veteran Administrator Suzanne Pevey, Efferson helped the new administrator, Richard Burt, through the transition. She kept the board office operating smoothly while Burt, new on the job, was out for several months for major surgery.

Taylor Aultman, LCSW, former board member and chairperson of the Louisiana State Board of Social Work Examiners, received the Outstanding Board Service award for his commitment to regulatory board service. Aultman was nominated by board staff because of his abilities to balance board responsibility, outreach work and his own career while being easy to reach, quick to respond to questions and prepared for whatever work or meeting he faced. Taylor Aultman, while no longer on the board, still serves on the Impaired Professional Program committee.

ASWB is the organization of the boards in 49 U.S. states, seven Canadian provinces, Washington, D.C., and the Virgin Islands that license and discipline social workers. Its purpose is to provide support and information toward the goal of protection of the public which uses social work services.

What's Important about Your Name?

Here, in a nutshell, is the problem. Some candidates are applying for a social work credential under names that do not match the name that appears on their government-issued photo identification. ASWB (Association of Social Work Boards) requires that the testing candidate present a government-issued form of identification at the test site. This form of identification must match the name used when the individual registers, so that the candidate's authorization letter reflects the name on the identification. This policy is in place as a security measure. To avoid a delay in registering for the exam, you should submit all applications to the board in the name that appears on your government-issued identification.

Frequently Asked Questions

A LCSW is seeing a couple for marital therapy. The couple divorces and the man comes to see the LCSW individually. Is this unethical? Can the social worker see both individually?

The therapist may see either or both clients. The therapist must assure that each understands, just like with any other client, his and her confidentiality will be maintained exclusive of the other. The therapist clinically has the obligation to remain as neutral as possible and anticipate that the couple may attempt to use the therapeutic intervention against each other.

While there is no ethical prohibition against seeing either or both clients, the LCSW may want to consider whether it is in the best interest of everyone to refer both parties for individual therapy to another social worker/practitioner. The social worker's role was initially as a marital therapist, and it may be best to remain in that context rather than move into individual therapy with either party.

A LCSW has a client that is a social worker. The client reports that he is abusing alcohol while on the job. Does the therapist report the violation to LABSWE?

Generally, the confidentiality of the client will supersede the responsibility of the therapist to protect the public by reporting the client to LABSWE without the express consent of the client except (but not limited to) in the following situations as stated in the Rules, Standards and Procedures of the Louisiana Social Work Practice Act 115:D and E:

1. Where circumstances giving rise to the list of exceptions to the healthcare provider-patient privilege listed in the La. Code of Evidence Article 510.
2. Where communications to the social worker reveal abuse or neglect of children and elders which impose an obligation on social workers as mandatory reporters under the Louisiana Children's Code Article 609, La. R.S. 14:403, and La. R.S. 14:403.2.
3. Where communications to the social worker relate to abuse or neglect of residents of healthcare facilities which impose duty to report under La. R.S. 40:2009.20.
4. Where the social worker has a duty to warn in relation to communications of threats of physical violence under La. R.S. 9:2800.2.
5. Where the social worker has been appointed to conduct an evaluation for child custody or visitation by the court or where prior communications to the social worker relate to the health conditions of a client(s) who are parties to proceedings or custody or visitation of a child and the condition has substantial bearing on the fitness of the person claiming custody or visitation.
6. In addition to the general directive in Rule 115.D., a social worker must inform a minor client, at the beginning of a professional relationship, of any laws which impose a limit on the right to privacy of a minor.

Rule 117 states, A social worker shall not practice while impaired by medication, alcohol, drugs, or other chemicals. A social worker shall not practice under a mental or physical condition that impairs the ability to safely practice.

The social worker should self report the alcohol abuse to LABSWE and may voluntarily enter the Impaired Professionals Program. The therapist should encourage the social worker to self report, if he hasn't already done so, and process this with him. However, as a mandatory reporter the therapist may find it necessary to report the substance abuse and should inform the client of this as they embark on the discussion of self reporting.

Recently the pastor of my church asked me to volunteer my services as a counselor for our youth congregation. Is this ethical; and if so, what are the stipulations both ethically and legally?

In any setting with dual relationships, or potential for dual relationships, the social worker should affirm that policies are in place to protect against exploitation, insure confidentiality and address special population issues (in this case minors) to assure that he or she is practicing under the guidelines of the Practice Act and within the appropriate scope of practice. The social worker must determine whether the specific situation will allow for ethical practice.

I am a Provisional GSW practicing as a Hospice Social Worker. Am I required to be supervised by a LCSW?

Yes, a Provisional GSW or GSW not pursuing the LCSW credential providing clinical social work must be supervised by a LCSW a minimum of two hours per month, counted in increments of no fewer than 30 minutes. The supervision may be rendered through individual supervision, group supervision, telephone contact or by secure electronic media to meet the needs of the agency and to provide timely services to clients in emergencies.

The supervisee and supervisor must keep accurate records of both the dates of supervision, times and hours spent in supervisor for potential audit of records. The board, at its discretion, may ask for a copy of the record.

I am a LCSW considering a contract with the state. In this position my agency supervisor will be a GSW. Can a GSW supervise in an agency setting?

Agencies, businesses, governmental entities and programs are responsible for internally developing job descriptions for social work positions within their operation, and may set the standard for what degree and/or credential they require of the person filling that position. Hence, an agency may hire anyone whom they deem qualified for that position based on the job description and the scope of the work. The Louisiana Social Work Practice Act, and the LABSWE has no jurisdiction in this matter, except to ensure that the person filling the position is practicing within the scope of the law. The GSW in the supervisory position must be supervised by a LCSW-BACS for a total of 4 hours per month if pursuing the LCSW credential, or by a LCSW for a total of 2 hours per month if not pursuing the LCSW credential. The GSW must also practice within the scope of practice as defined by the practice act.

Notice to Provisional GSWs

MSWs can hold the provisional certificate for up to three (3) years from the date of issuance of the original certificate provided the individual takes the examination at least once each year. It is not recommended that you only test once a year if you are having difficulties passing the exam. A person can receive approval to retake the examination every 90 days. Retaking the exam does not exempt a Provisional GSW from renewing their credential annually. Renewals are mailed on June 20th of each year.

The Provisional Graduate Social Worker who does not pass the credentialing examination within three (3) years may apply for the Registered Social Work (RSW) credential. After obtaining RSW registration, a MSW is allowed to practice only under the scope of practice of a RSW. The scope of practice for a RSW is outlined in the Louisiana Social Work Practice Act §2706.B.

Agreement to Volunteer Services During a Disaster Or Emergency or Both

The Department of Health and Hospitals is the designated Incident Command System during a disaster. They are also responsible for providing medical services of the Special Needs Shelters. During Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, there was a severe shortage of social worker volunteers to assist with crisis/grief counseling, discharge planning, and post traumatic stress.

Licensing boards have been asked to assist the Center for Community Preparedness with the recruitment of volunteers by publishing the "Emergency Systems for the Advanced Registration of Volunteer Health Professionals" registration form. This document has been posted to the board's website www.labswe.org.

Emergency Systems for the Advanced Registration of Volunteer Health Professionals (ESAR-VHP) was designed to provide a systematic way of coordinating volunteer efforts during an emergency with a special emphasis on advanced credential verification and deployment based on skill set (levels). The level to which a volunteer has been credentialed highly dictates the capacity in which they will serve during an emergency. The purpose of ESAR-VHP is to build a volunteer workforce in advance of an emergency.

Questions relative to volunteering can be directed to Mardrah M. Starks, MPA, ESAR-VHP Coordinator, at (225) 763-3965 or (225) 763-3566 or to Patricia Calvin Scott, LCSW, Director of Medical Social Services, at (504) 219-4448.
